Scope of Coverage: The Full-Pay Tuition Fee is determined based on the applicable Coverage Period of the graduate program (four semesters for thesis-based master's programs and three semesters for non-thesis master's programs) and is not affected by the number of courses taken by the student. During the Coverage Period, students may register for any number of courses without incurring additional tuition charges. Repeated courses, up to two thesis registrations, courses retaken due to failure, seminar courses, and one registration for a term project are included in the Full-Pay Tuition Fee. The Administrative Fee and Student Services Fund are also included in the package fee. Courses taken after the expiration of the Coverage Period, as well as any English Preparatory School requirements and scientific preparation courses that may be required prior to admission to the graduate program are not included in the package and are subject to separate fees.

Exclusions: The Full-Pay Tuition Fee Model does not apply to joint degree or dual degree programs. Any English Preparatory School training that may be required prior to admission to the graduate program are not included in the package. The Coverage Period shall begin with the student's first semester in the graduate program. Scientific preparation courses are not covered by the package fee. Any program, course, or academic requirement that falls outside the scope of the Coverage Period shall be charged separately.

Payment Conditions and Discount

- The Full-Pay Tuition Fee may be paid in two installments, due at the beginning of the Fall and Spring semesters of the first academic year.
- Students who pay the full amount in a single lump-sum payment in advance shall be entitled to an additional 10% discount.
- Students enrolled under the Full-Pay Tuition Fee Model shall not be eligible for any other scholarship, discount, or tuition reduction. Accordingly, no additional benefits, including EMU Alumni Discounts, Sibling Discounts, Corporate Agreement Discounts, or any other scholarship or discount schemes, shall be applied.

Expiration of the Coverage Period

The Full-Pay Tuition Fee is valid for the normal study period of the relevant graduate program (four semesters for thesis-based master's programs and three semesters for non-thesis master's programs). Upon completion of this period, students are expected to have fulfilled all coursework requirements and, where applicable, advanced to the thesis phase. Students who continue their studies beyond the applicable Coverage Period shall be subject to additional charges. Students registered in the thesis phase shall pay the relevant thesis registration fee for each additional semester. Exceptionally, students who remain in the coursework phase and continue to register for courses shall be charged in accordance with the applicable per-course tuition fee schedule.

The fee structure applicable to students exceeding the Coverage Period is determined according to student category and is presented below:

Student Category	Fee Schedule Applicable Upon Exceeding the Coverage Period (Thesis Registration / Per-Course Fee)
International	The "International Student – 50% Scholarship/Discount" thesis registration and per-course fee schedule shall apply.
TRNC	The standard TRNC-citizen student thesis registration and per-course fee schedule specified in the applicable tuition fee table shall apply.
TR	The standard TR-citizen student thesis registration and per-course fee schedule specified in the applicable tuition fee table shall apply.
